Aladdin and the Magic Lamp

In a faraway land, there was a poor boy named Aladdin.

One day, he found an old, dusty lamp in a cave.

When Aladdin rubbed the lamp, a magical genie appeared.

The genie said he would grant Aladdin three wishes.

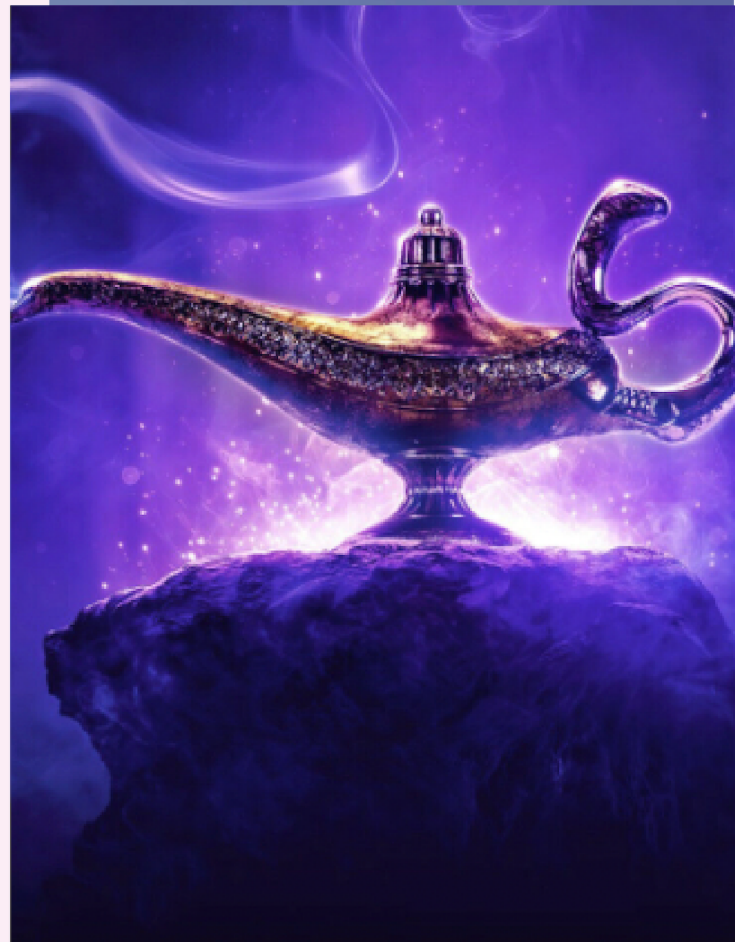

Aladdin's first wish was to live in a beautiful palace. The genie granted his wish, and Aladdin's new home was filled with sparkling jewels and golden decorations. Aladdin was very happy with his new life.

An evil sorcerer wanted the magic lamp. He tricked Aladdin's wife into giving it to him.

The sorcerer used the lamp to take the palace and treasures away from Aladdin.

Aladdin was sad and wanted to get the lamp back.

Aladdin thought of a clever plan. He tricked the sorcerer and got the lamp back.

With his final wish, Aladdin asked the genie to send the sorcerer far away.

Aladdin and his wife lived happily ever after, knowing that they were safe and grateful for their cleverness.

The Magical Toy Box

One night, when the clock struck twelve, Lucy was fast asleep in her bed. She had a big wooden toy box at the end of her bed.

The toy box was very special because it was magic.
When Lucy was asleep, the lid of the toy box slowly opened.

Out of the toy box, one by one, the toys began to climb out.
“It’s time to play,” whispered Teddy, to all the toys inside.

They all stretched and yawned as if they had just woken up.
The toys looked at each other and smiled.

The toys started to play around Lucy's room.

The toys crept into the hall, so quietly, on tiptoe. They climbed on board and puppy said, “ Hold on tight”. Let’s go !”

They were having so much fun, laughing and playing together.

Suddenly, the clock began to chime again. It was five o'clock.
The toys knew they had to go back to the toy box before Lucy woke up.

Quickly, they climbed back into the toy box, and the lid slowly closed.
Lucy never knew that her toys had come to life and played while she was sleeping.
